Foreword from Jeremy Corbyn

I want to start by thanking every single member and affiliate. It is our base in communities and workplaces that gives us our strength. With well over half a million members, we have more members than all the other parties in Britain combined.

While other parties rely on big business or wealthy individuals, we are stronger because we rely on each other. This year, we have established our Community Organising team to ensure that our party harnesses the strength of its members and supporters. We are genuinely of the many not the few; for the many not the few.

This year has seen a lot of change. We have an excellent new General Secretary in Jennie Formby, who has taken over from Iain McNicol. Jennie brings years of party and union experience to the role. Her top priority has been to tackle antisemitism and implement in full the recommendations of the Chakrabarti report. Each of us has a duty to ensure our party is a welcoming environment for all members, and that it remains at the forefront of tackling prejudice and fighting racism in every form.

At conference this year, the party will debate and vote on changes to make our party more democratic and to enable greater participation from our members and affiliates. The Democracy Review established at last year's conference has heard from thousands of members. Thank you to everyone who has engaged in the process.

I also want to thank Labour's councillors and mayors across the country who are demonstrating the benefits of Labour being in power. I am pleased that Labour gained Trafford, Kirklees, Plymouth and Tower Hamlets in the May local elections, as well as achieving our best result in London since 1971. But we know we can and must do better next year.

The Tory Government is still pursuing a poisonous cocktail of austerity, privatisation and deregulation. This dogma has been unaffected by the collapse of Carillion, the chaos on our privatised railways, or even their own Tory councils going bankrupt. The Windrush scandal proved without doubt that they are still the nasty party.

The Government's botched Brexit negotiations continue to put jobs and living standards at risk, and we must hold them to account and campaign for a new trading relationship that protects jobs and industry. We respect the referendum result, but we cannot accept any deal that will make people worse off.

This year we also celebrated the 70th anniversary of Labour's greatest creation: the NHS. As Nye Bevan himself said, "No society can legitimately call itself civilised if a sick person is denied medical aid because of lack of means ...". This is the core principle of the NHS and it is why it has become our country's most prized and popular institution.

Let us together ensure we get Labour in government, so that we can protect and improve the NHS and build on its legacy across all public services.

Jeremy Corbyn
Leader of the Labour Party

Introduction from Tom Watson

This has been the first year since 2014 when the Labour Party hasn't had to deal with either a general election, a leadership election or both. But that doesn't mean 2018 has been uneventful.

The Tories are hopelessly divided and barely clinging to power.

Members of the Cabinet are more focused on jockeying for the chance to succeed Theresa May than on negotiating a Brexit deal in the national interest or on dealing with the effects of eight years of Tory austerity on our public services.

Millions of people across the country are in low paid, insecure work and struggling to get on.

There's a gaping divide between the richest and poorest. That divide could be made better or worse by new technology and automation but under this Government I fear the latter. The Future of Work commission I set up reported in December on how we can make sure it's the former.

There are huge challenges facing our country and the sooner we have a Labour government led by Jeremy Corbyn, the better. Our job is to do everything we can to make that happen, and we're going in the right direction.

In May we saw good local election results that consolidate the progress we made at the 2017 general election and show how the political situation has been transformed since then.

I want to repeat my sincere thanks to all of our councillors, all of our council candidates and every single member and supporter who played a part in that campaign. We need to make sure we're ready for an even bigger test next year, when councils covering around 40 per cent of the country will be up for election.

Aside from the local elections, the instability of the Conservative minority government means that we have to be on a permanent election footing and we have already made good progress in selecting some excellent general election candidates. We need to make sure that our elected Labour representatives look more like the country and communities we serve. Jeremy and I pledged in our respective selection campaigns to support candidates from low income backgrounds and those with disabilities. I'm delighted that this April saw the launch of our new Labour Party Bursary scheme that will help make that happen.

If we continue to show the unity we've demonstrated this year; if we continue to reform the Party so that it has our members at its heart; if we continue to listen and to put forward the new ideas that can transform the country for the better, in contrast to a Tory Party that's running out of steam, we will be well placed to win the next election. And we could find ourselves with another shot at getting into government sooner than we think. We have to be ready.

Tom Watson,
Deputy Leader of the Labour Party

Introduction from The General Secretary

I took office in April 2018, only the second woman to hold the post of General Secretary of the Labour Party. I am immensely proud to have been appointed by the National Executive Committee (NEC) and thank them for placing their confidence in me. I would also like to pay tribute to my predecessor, Iain McNicol, for his years of service.

2018 has been another busy year for the Labour Party with local elections in many parts of the country. I have been astounded by the hard work, skills and commitment of Labour Party staff in the nations and regions, at the Labour Party offices in Newcastle and London and those supporting our elected officials. I would like to take this opportunity to thank them all.

As a new General Secretary, I am keen that we use the findings of the Democracy Review as an opportunity to transform the Labour Party and its structures. We are proud to be a mass membership party, with our membership totalling over half a million and holding steady throughout the year. We now need to make sure that the Labour Party's structures are as accessible as possible and enable maximum participation of our huge membership, whether that involvement is at local party meetings, in policy development or campaigning on the doorstep and in our local communities.

We have had a massive influx of new members and we want to take them on a journey from new members to experienced activists - winning campaigns and defeating the Tories at election time. That's why I am so pleased that Labour has recently launched our Community Organising Unit, supporting bottom-up campaigns, led and developed by you - the members. Community organising provides the opportunity to capture the energy of the General Election and galvanise members, supporters and the wider community to organise for victory - for the many, by the many.

I would like to finish by thanking you all for so generously giving time and energy to the Labour Party - campaigning, holding positions at branch and constituency Labour Party level and representing your local communities. Thank you for all your work and support.

Jennie Formby
General Secretary of the Labour Party

By-elections

Parliamentary by-election Lewisham East

Following Heidi Alexander's decision to take up the role of Deputy Mayor of London, a by-election for Lewisham East was called for Thursday 14 June 2018. Janet Daby, former Deputy Mayor of Lewisham, local councillor and director of a local community food project, was selected by local members to be the candidate.

Catherine West MP and Vicky Foxcroft MP were appointed as joint political leads for the campaign. Janet's campaign focused on tackling the broken local train service, protecting Lewisham Hospital and preventing a Tory extreme Brexit.

Voters in Lewisham East have been to the polls many times over the last two years, with the mayoral and local elections taking place a few weeks prior to the by-election polling date. This meant that turning out the Labour vote was always going to be the major strategic challenge for the campaign. London Labour staff used this by-election as an opportunity to try out new campaign innovations, including the targeting of commuters with digital advertising and a new promise card featuring a personalised map to the polling station for every Labour voter.

We were lucky to receive the support of members from across the London boroughs during the campaign, especially on our Lewisham Action Saturdays. We also received visits from senior Labour figures including Jeremy Corbyn, Sadiq Khan, Diane Abbott, Ian Lavery, Andrew Gwynne, Jonathan Ashworth, Andy McDonald and Jennie Formby.

The Liberal Democrats targeted the seat with considerable resources, with their leader Vince Cable visiting seven times. However, Janet Daby performed strongly on polling day receiving over 50% of the vote and securing a majority for Labour of 5,629.

Welsh Assembly by-election Alyn & Deeside by-election

Following the tragic passing of Carl Sargeant, a by-election in the constituency of Alyn and Deeside took place on Tuesday 6 February 2018. Jack Sargeant, Carl's son, was selected as Welsh Labour's candidate.

The by-election campaign made over 15,000 individual contacts; increasing the contact rate in the constituency by 11%. Over 120 members were mobilised from over 30 CLPs in Wales and North West England, with new tools such as Chatter (which sends out personalised SMS messages) being particularly successful. The Facebook page acquired 2,017 likes, and had a total reach of 45,000 voters. Our videos were particularly successful, with 69,000 unique video views from 18 videos over the course of the campaign. On Twitter we had an average of 139 likes and 51 retweets per day.

Mark Tami MP and Ken Skates AM acted as political leads, and over the course of the campaign we had dozens of visits from Assembly Members and MPs, as well as campaigning visits from Tom Watson and Jeremy Corbyn.

Welsh Labour were particularly grateful for the secondments received from across the organisation, and the work of the volunteers who came to help from across the UK.

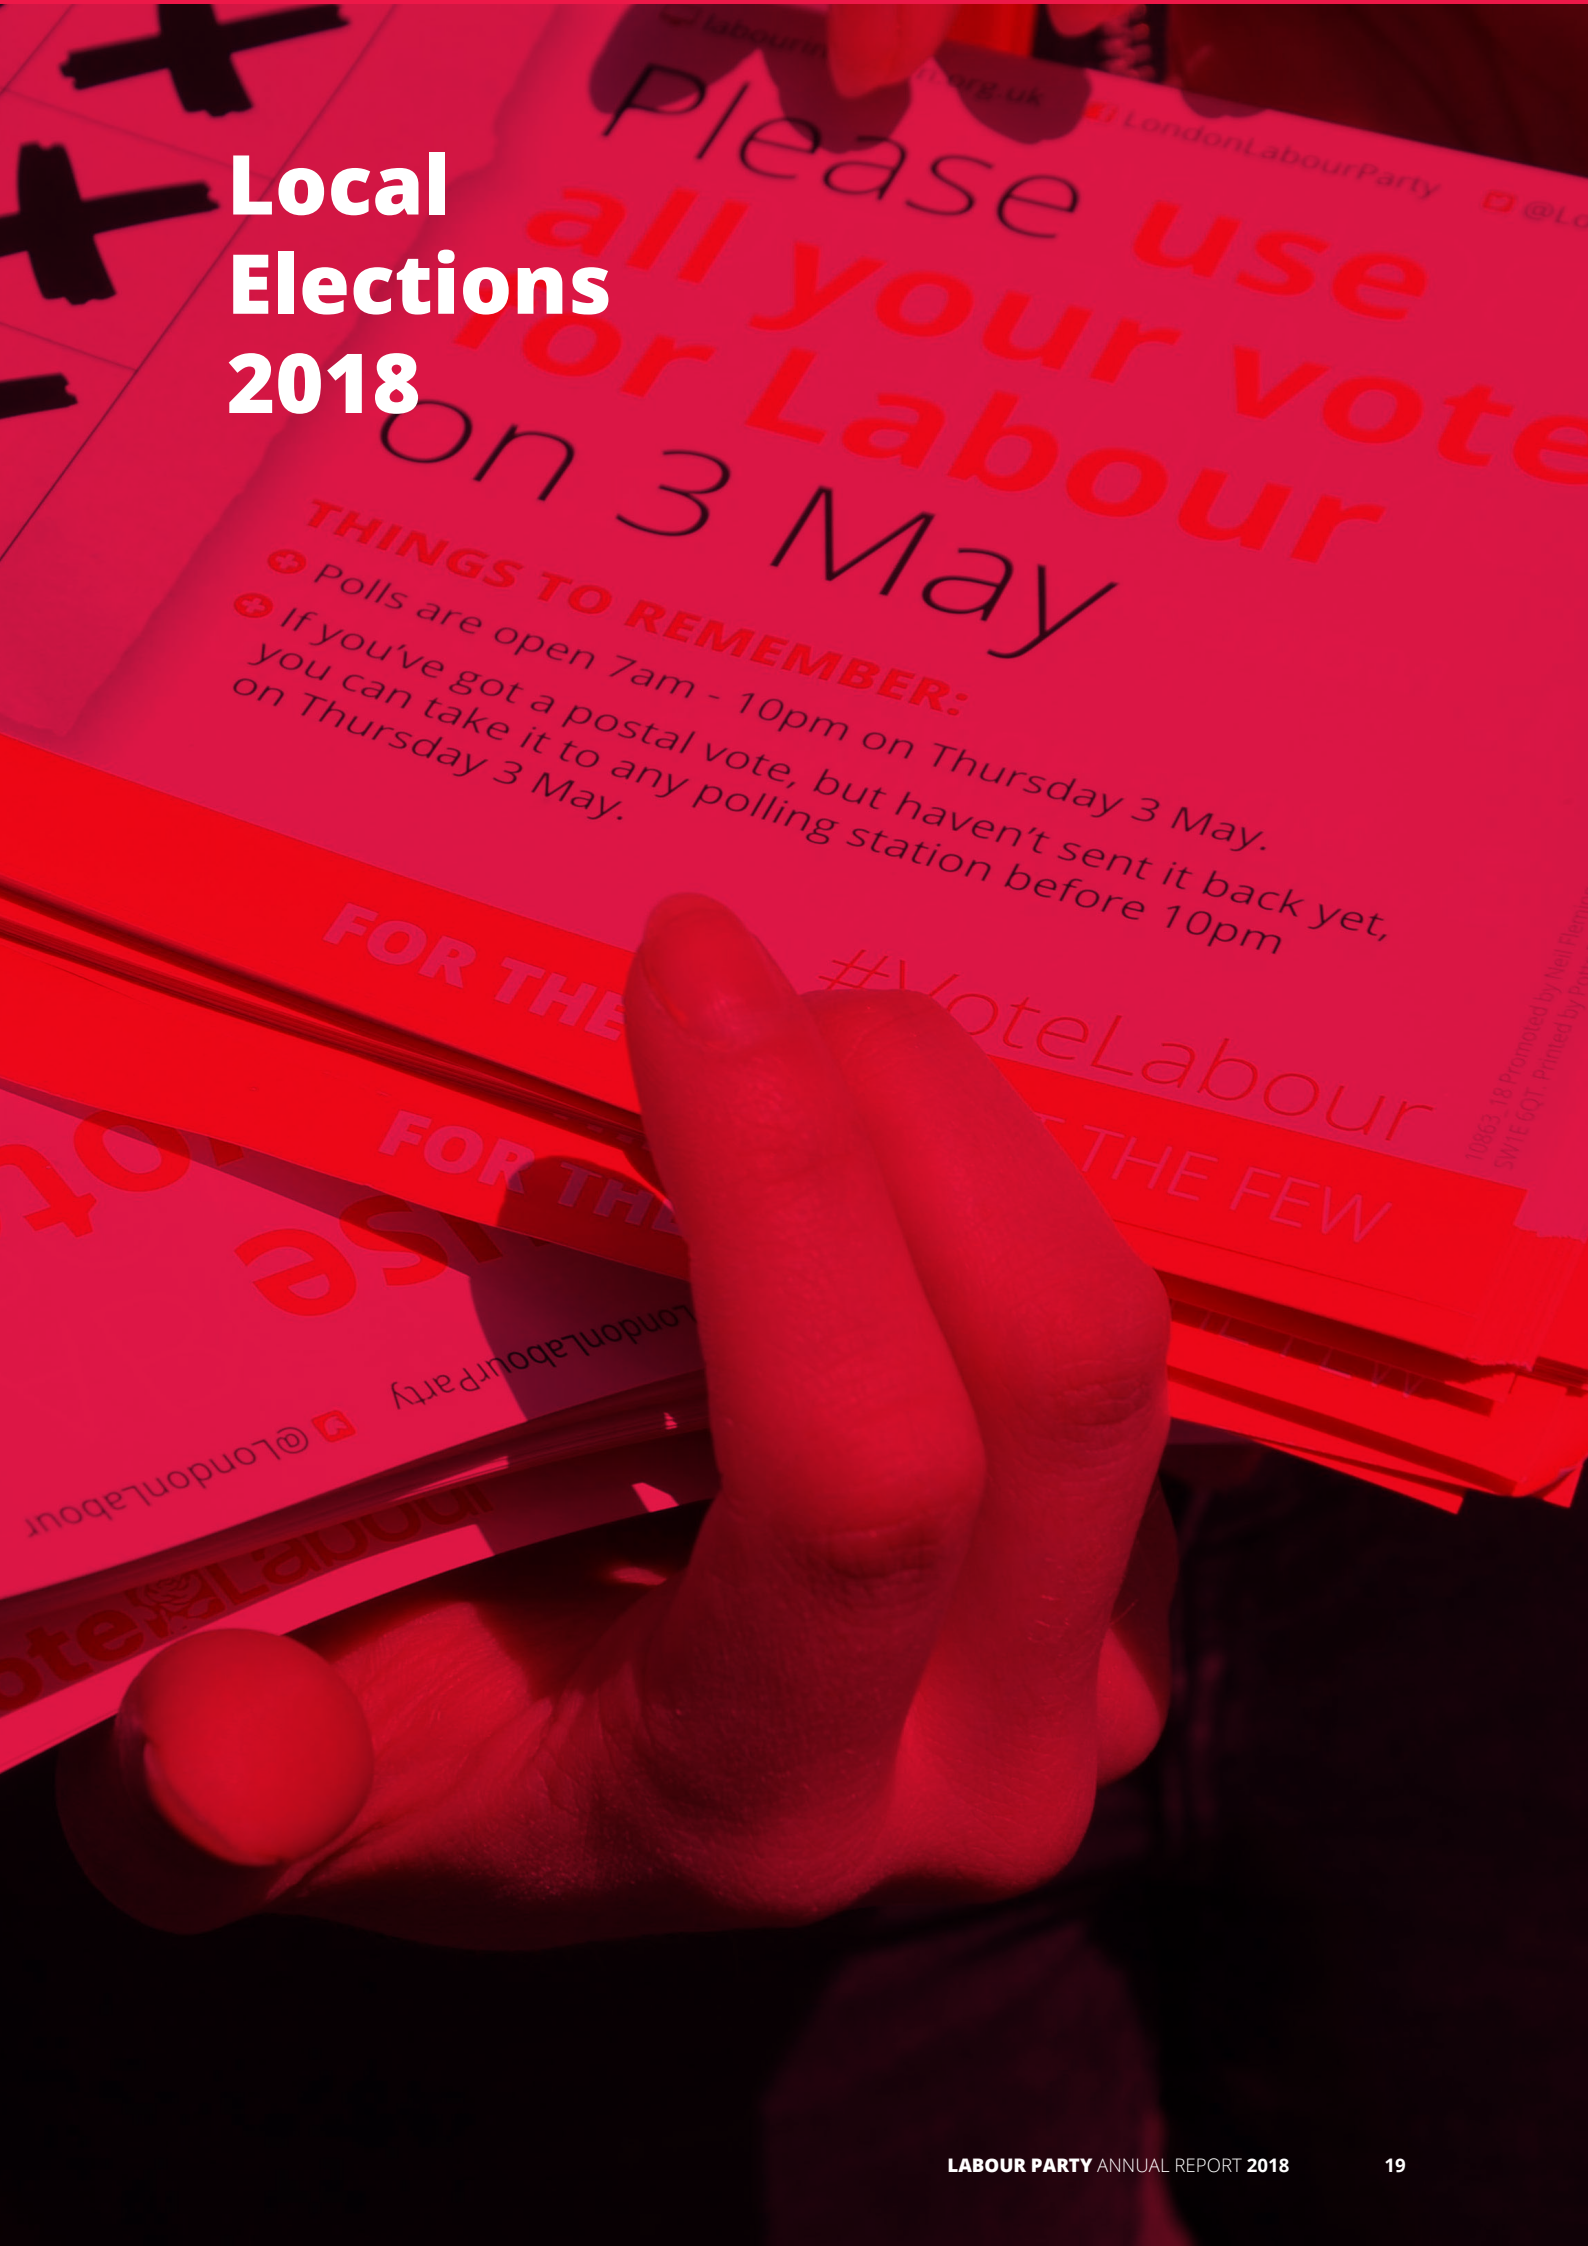

Although turnout was low – reflecting the winter weather and the unusual choice of a Tuesday for polling day – Welsh Labour had a 15% increase in the share of the vote, and Jack Sargeant retained the seat for Welsh Labour with a majority of 6,545.

Local Government report

The Association of Labour Councillors (ALC) Executive members have been working with both fellow councillors and Labour Party staff to further develop the support councillors receive. There will be a focus on training towards the 2019 local elections campaign, providing webinars and also regional events in areas with a particular training need or significant amount of elections taking place.

In addition to this, the ALC launched a new dedicated Local Government section on the main party website at labour.org.uk/councillors. Part of this includes a councillor only hub, bringing together the support available to Labour councillors. This resource will be further developed over the year.

At the ALC AGM, Councillor Simon Henig was re-elected as Chair and Councillor Judi Billing as Vice-Chair.

Local election campaign 2018

A number of Local Government Association (LGA) & ALC members met with the National Campaign Coordinators regarding planning for the local elections campaign, and were present at the local election campaign launch in Trafford. A review of the local election results has been communicated to key stakeholders and Andrew Gwynne attended the ALC Executive meeting in May to deliver a presentation on this.

Leadership at the Local Government Association

During a successful LGA Conference, Nick Forbes, Leader of Newcastle City Council, was officially re-elected as Leader of the Labour Group in the LGA. Lib Peck, Leader of Lambeth Council, and Michael Payne, Deputy Leader of Gedling Council, were also re-elected as Deputy Leaders.

Labour local government conference

In February, the ALC/LGA Labour Group held a successful local government conference in the East Midlands. New councillors were again able to attend for free and there was a range of plenary sessions and breakouts. Many thanks to our guest speakers, who included Jeremy Corbyn and Andrew Gwynne. The ALC put on a breakout session in conjunction with Mind about mental health and wellbeing and this will be something the Executive will be looking to develop over the coming year.

Be a councillor & regional training

The LGA Labour Group continues to work with regional Labour parties and trade unions to deliver 'Be a councillor' events across the country, to encourage Labour Party members to stand for election. There are plenty of resources and advice for members wishing to become councillors so make sure you sign up to future sessions which will be advertised through your regional office.

Many congratulations to everyone who was re-elected or elected for the first time at the local elections in May. Those of you who have been elected for the first time should have received your new councillor booklet, packed with information and advice for new councillors. We would also like to thank those candidates, who were unsuccessful this year, for their hard work and contribution to Labour in local government and the Labour Party as a whole.

Nick Forbes, Leader of the LGA Labour Group

Simon Henig, Chair of the ALC Executive

Looking Ahead: 2019 Elections

Looking Ahead: 2019 Elections

The year ahead in Scotland

Scottish Labour is in a healthy, vibrant and optimistic state. Our new leadership team of Richard Leonard and Lesley Laird has hit the ground running and is already taking on the dual threat of the SNP and the Tories with our key message of 'Real Change For the Many'.

Our Scottish Conference earlier this year brimmed with enthusiasm and ideas, with many young people in attendance making it clear that, once again, young people are finding their home in the Labour Party. Last year's election result showed that Labour in Scotland is back, but of course it also provided clear evidence that we have so much more work to do.

We have selected candidates in our most marginal UK seats and they are already campaigning and presenting our vision of a better Scotland, a better UK, and a better world for the many, not the few. Looking forward, we will begin to focus our attention on the Scottish Parliament elections in 2021.

Labour in Scotland still faces challenges but with the right level of organisation, determination and belief in our message, and with the confidence in our mission, we can and we must win again. Working people and the voiceless need us to.

Our activists are campaigning hard in Scotland with a renewed optimism and vigour. We are confident in our message and know that it is Labour that will transform lives and invest in our people, communities, industries and public services. It is that message, which stands in stark contrast to the Tories and SNP, that we will relentlessly communicate.

The year ahead in Wales

With First Minister and Welsh Labour Leader, Carwyn Jones, announcing his intention to step down at Welsh Labour Conference in Llandudno in April 2018, a large part of the year ahead will see Welsh Labour focused on the leadership election. The campaign will begin officially in October, with a new leader in place by the time the Welsh Assembly breaks for Christmas.

Ahead of the leadership election over the summer of 2018, the first part of Welsh Labour's Democracy Review, led by Lord Paul Murphy, will take place. Lord Murphy will consider the methods used to elect Welsh Labour's Leader and Deputy Leader, with recommendations considered at a Special Conference in mid-September, allowing any rule changes to take place ahead of the leadership contest. Once the first part of the review has concluded, Lord Murphy will move onto considering those other areas of party activity and organisation in Wales specifically devolved to Welsh Labour and will make recommendations ahead of Welsh Labour Conference in 2019.

This year, Welsh Labour has its biggest ever Future Candidates programme. The aim of the programme is to allow more members to find out about standing for election and being an elected representative. Welsh Labour wants to increase the number of candidates coming forward for selection at all levels, as well as ensuring that our candidates are representative of communities across Wales. Taster sessions for members will run over the summer of 2018 before the beginning of the programme proper in the autumn, with a focus on encouraging women members and members from BAME communities.

Over the course of 2018/19, Welsh Labour will also complete selections in all of our early selection seats and the Welsh Executive Council will look at beginning the Assembly selections for 2021. Welsh Labour will be focussed on preparing CLPs and candidates for a general election and the next Assembly elections, with a range of training and campaign materials to help take Labour's message on to doorsteps across Wales.

Looking Ahead: 2019 Elections

Local Elections 2019

Looking ahead to the local elections in 2019: local elections take place on Thursday 2 May 2019 across England in 252 councils.

The councils being contested are:

- 33 Metropolitan Boroughs
- 169 Shire Districts
- 45 Non-Metropolitan Unitary Authorities

Of these, 52 councils will be electing their whole councils on new wards.

Elections will also take place for 5 new authorities as a result of restructuring.

Mayoral elections will take place in Bedford, Copeland, Leicester, Mansfield and Middlesbrough.

Of the 247 unchanged councils, 67 are Labour, 140 Conservative, 6 Liberal Democrat with 1 Independent and 33 in no overall control.

Looking Ahead: Boundary Review

The Parliamentary Boundary Review is now reaching its final stages. The legislation stipulates that the report containing recommendations for new constituencies must be presented to the Secretary of State in October of this year after which it shall be presented to Parliament ("as soon as may be") for approval. If the vote is passed, the new constituencies come into force whenever the next general election takes place after that. If, for whatever reason, Parliament does not vote in favour of the report then the constituencies remain unchanged.

This is the second review of constituencies to be carried out under the terms of the Parliamentary Voting System and Constituencies Act 2011, the first having been aborted in 2013 when the Liberal Democrats joined Labour in supporting an amendment requiring the commissions to postpone producing their first report until 2018.

The Boundary Review legislation stands on its own and the timetable is unaffected by the fact that a General Election was held in 2017.

The key elements of the legislation are:

- Fixing the size of Parliament at 600 MPs (and therefore seats), distributed proportionally between the four countries of the UK according to their electorates.
- A UK-wide Electoral Quota with every seat (except those in the Scottish islands and the Isle of Wight) required to have an electorate within five per cent of that quota.
- A review of seats to be carried out every five years.

The commissions made proposals according to an allocation between the countries of the UK determined by their electorates, with England losing 32 of the 50 seats abolished, Wales 11, Scotland six and Northern Ireland one. Within England the main changes are in the North West (down from 75 to 68 seats), London (73 to 68), the West Midlands (59 to 53) and the North East (29 to 25).

The Party organised briefing and consultation meetings in all parts of the country intended to ensure that we had a unified position, in support of the proposals or making counter proposals, in all regions and countries. While there are many problems with the legislation which will create considerable disruption in some areas and uses flawed electoral data, the commissions themselves are politically neutral and historically have proved very likely to make changes to their proposals as a result of the consultation. Representations were made at all public hearings and a written submission made in support of our proposals.

The Revised Proposals for England, Scotland and Wales were published in October 2017 and a consultation period ran to 11 December. The majority of constituencies were changed between the Initial Proposals and Revised Proposals and in some regions, notably London, the West Midlands and Yorkshire & the Humber, the changes were wholesale. The NEC Boundary Steering Group approved a small number of new counter proposals to address changes which had been made to some of the Initial Proposals, but the Commissions' Revised Proposals are unlikely to be significantly amended in the report to Parliament.

Renewing our Party and building an active membership and supporters network

Following last year's General Election, over 80,000 people joined the Labour Party, and we ended 2017 with well over 500,000 members.

End-of-year figures from 2008 – 2017

Our membership team works hard to keep members and supporters informed and engaged and we answer many thousands of calls, email and letters from members of the Party and the public. We also have an outbound calling operation which contacts members to remind them to renew their membership and we have successfully maintained a high level of retention.

We have continued to invest in innovative campaigning tools and technology. This year has seen the launch of our new volunteer management system, Organise. Organise replaces NationBuilder and will help local parties engage with their members, organise effectively and win elections. Organise continues to improve based on feedback and there will be a number of sessions allowing local parties to meet the Organise team and discuss future plans. We have also launched new local party websites to allow everyone to have a professional web presence, for free.

The local elections this year saw thousands of members across England get involved, with tens of thousands donating to power our campaign. Over 40,000 people used YourElectionVictory.com to find out where they could best campaign.

We continue to expand and improve our training programme with feedback from members. As well as offering an expanded range of training at our annual conference, we have also delivered events at regional, Scottish and Welsh conferences, and continued with our programme of online training via webinars and engaging live video chat events.

Equalities

Equalities: Winning with women

At Women's Conference 2017, the Women's Conference Arrangements Committee was elected. Through the committee and the NEC subcommittee for Women's Conference, there has been significant progress on changing the direction on how Women's Conference will be run. At this year's conference, for the first time motions will be debated and one motion will be sent to Annual Conference. In 2019, there will be a stand-alone two day, delegate based Women's Conference.

The Jo Cox Programme has successfully completed its second cycle of the five year programme. There were 57 new trainees on this round. The programme was very successful with positive feedback. The third round of applications will reopen after Annual Conference.

Labour Women's Network (LWN) have held two conferences about their work on addressing sexual harassment. LWN will continue to feed in to the Party what they have learnt and the feedback they have received.

The first Women's gala dinner for many years has also been arranged this year, raising funds to support female candidates in early selection seats.

Equalities: BAME Labour

BAME Labour and Labour's Friends groups played a key role during the local elections, engaging and mobilising BAME communities and campaigning in support of BAME candidates.

Chinese for Labour held a gala dinner to celebrate Chinese New Year during which they also publicised their manifesto 'Speaking Out'. In addition, various groups have organised receptions to celebrate religious events which reached out to community groups from outside the Labour Party.

In response to ensuring that the Labour Party continues to have representative and diverse candidates, members of the NEC's Equalities Committee have suggested that there should be a BAME Leadership Programme. Dawn Butler MP and BAME members of the Equalities Committee will be looking at how this programme can be implemented.

In addition, BAME groups have played a vital role throughout the Democracy Review in submitting their ideas on how BAME structures within the party should be organised. This culminated in a day-long event in Leeds for BAME members to discuss their ideas.

Equalities: LGBT Labour

The NEC has delivered a strong statement in regards to trans women and All Women Shortlists (AWS). This reaffirmed Party policy that trans women were entitled to stand on an All Women Shortlist.

In response to abuse of the trans community, LGBT Labour will be launching a Trans Allies Network which will produce a motion to go to CLPs. This is a positive way to engage CLPs in this debate and to continue to make sure that the Labour Party is as inclusive as possible.

Stephen Doughty and Angela Eagle, co-Chairs of the PLP LGBT+ Group held an evening reception in support of building a 'Building a trans inclusive Party'. This was an opportunity to hear from members of the trans community about how Labour can build and promote a trans inclusive Party.

Dawn Butler will be holding a consultation process to engage women members on the Gender Recognition Act.

LGBT Labour campaigned throughout the local elections across the country in many target authorities. They also attended a reception with the Leader of the Labour Party to celebrate LGBT History Month.

In addition, LGBT Labour will be working closely with Dawn Butler as part of the LGBT advisory board.

Equalities: Disability Labour

Disability Labour has continued to work with the Party on accessibility issues with several campaigns being held to increase awareness of this.

They have also worked with Party staff throughout the Democracy Review process to ensure disabled members voices are heard, attending a day-long event in Birmingham which was solely focussed on how Labour Party structures and process can be improved to increase accessibility.

Equalities: Young Labour

Buoyed by last year's General Election, Young Labour has gone from strength to strength this year. In October, young members, young trade unionists, students and affiliates came together with Jeremy Corbyn for the biggest ever national youth policy conference in Warwick to debate policies submitted by young members from across the country, to shape Labour's next manifesto.

In the new year, the first ever online national youth elections welcomed in a new Young Labour National Committee and youth representatives on regions and nations boards. Congratulations go to Lara McNeill for her election as the Youth Representative on the NEC and to Miriam Mirwitch for her election as Chair of Young Labour along with all those who were elected on to the Young Labour National Committee.

Ahead of the local elections, young members enjoyed the first young activist bootcamp, attended by General Secretary Jennie Formby, developing key campaigning and community organising skills to become leading activists in the locals and beyond. Furthermore, regional Young Labour campaign days were arranged in every region to get young members mobilised, speaking to voter in target areas ahead of polling day.

Equalities: Labour Students

Following last year's General Election when students helped end the Tories' majority, Labour Students has continued to strengthen support for Labour on campus and beyond. We ran national campaign days every week in the build-up to the local elections, mobilising students in key targets including Trafford, Milton Keynes and Kirklees, as well as separate BAME-member campaign days in Birmingham and Barnet.

We began our new #ElectionReady project, twinning Labour Clubs with early selection seats ahead of the next general election. Labour Students also launched our 'Somewhere to Call Home' priority campaign on improving the quality and affordability of student accommodation, while Labour Clubs across the country fought for the real living wage on campus, better rights for student workers and stood in solidarity with UCU striking staff.

We held our summer training event in Bath, up-skilling activists to recruit new students at freshers' fairs, launch campus campaigns and run canvassing sessions for their Clubs. Our Political Weekend in Liverpool featured a brilliant keynote speech from Labour's Shadow Foreign Secretary, Emily Thornberry, as well as sessions on mental health policy and trade unions in the 21st century.

We continued our work with the Jewish Labour Movement and Union of Jewish Students to deliver anti-Semitism training to Labour Clubs, and this year held our first ever Liberation Conference in Birmingham, underlining our absolute support for all students facing discrimination on campus and in wider society.

National Policy Forum

2017-2018 was another busy year for the National Policy Forum. Following a rule change at Annual Conference 2016, Women's Conference for the first time had a formal voice in Labour's policy making process. Policy debates on four key areas as chosen by CLPs and affiliates through a ballot over the summer constituted the formal business of the day and reports of these debates fed back into the National Policy Forum (NPF) process. Annual Conference was presented with the NPF report, detailing the work of the NPF policy commissions over the year. The reports formed the basis of debates on the floor, and in nine policy seminars, which together allowed delegates an opportunity to discuss and reflect on key policy issues.

A rule change meant that Conference delegates had the right to "refer back" part of any National Policy Forum policy document. This mechanism was used on four occasions with three motions to reference back accepted and one rejected. Motions to reference back that were accepted by Delegates at Annual Conference were referred to the relevant NPF policy commissions for further examination.

In Brighton the policy team also launched the refreshed Labour Policy Forum site with new functions and design features to aid the user journey so that members are better able to navigate the site, find discussions and make comments more easily and changes to make it clearer when a submission has been submitted on behalf of a CLP. In addition, over the summer the Policy Development team surveyed NPF Representatives and other users about the site in order to examine how it can be further improved going forward.

Following Conference, the NPF was tasked with a programme of activity to build on the manifesto so we are ready for government whenever the election comes. As a growing movement, with a large number of new members, it was important that we put in place a process that made engaging members new and old a priority.

To that end, at the December meeting of the Joint Policy Committee a programme of work for coming year was agreed for the eight policy commissions including a consultation with the Party involving members across the country and an NPF meeting in the spring. As part of this work each commission was tasked with producing a consultation document taking an area of Labour policy to look at in further detail. The policy commissions then set a programme of meetings over the next year to take evidence as part of their work this year.

The consultation topics were:

- Towards a National Education Service
- The future of work
- A greener Britain
- Tackling health inequalities
- Giving people the power to shape their local communities
- Achieving the Sustainable Development Goals
- Protecting our communities and turning lives around
- Addressing in-work poverty and working-age inequalities

A two-day meeting of the NPF was held in February at the Queens Hotel in Leeds. Break-out sessions for representatives to discuss the eight consultation document topics were held across the weekend. In addition there were plenary sessions on the NHS, Brexit and the Party Democracy Review. Meetings were also held for the policy commission Brexit, Equality and Sustainability representatives. In addition, the Brexit representatives had an opportunity for a discussion on key issues in this area with Sir Keir Starmer in advance of the Brexit plenary.

Following the NPF meeting, a ballot of all NPF members to elect a new Chair was held. On 27 April, Ann Black was elected as the new NPF Chair, succeeding Ann Cryer, to whom we would like to record our thanks for her sterling work in the role.

The National Policy Forum Consultation was formally launched in March with an email from Jeremy Corbyn MP to all members. Consultation packs were sent to all CLP secretaries, which included a suite of materials including the eight policy documents and a guide to getting involved and hosting meetings locally. In addition, dozens of events were organised by Regional Offices alongside those being held by local parties for Labour members to discuss these issues. We also consulted widely with other stakeholders and had a programme of outreach to engage business and third sector organisations to add their voice to the consultation in specific areas. Activity was also publicised through the Labour Policy Forum (@labpolicyforum) Twitter feed with a unique hashtag #NPFConsultation2018.

To maximise member access to and participation in the policy making process CLPs were offered support in organising events and more information on the policy making process through training webinars run by the Policy Development Team. The team will be holding training sessions on the NPF and policy making process during Annual Conference 2018, to find out more please visit the Party stand.

Alongside the wider consultation, the Policy Team worked with Angela Rayner MP, Shadow Secretary of State for Education and her team on the National Education Service Roadshow, which held events for members and other key stakeholders across the nine English regions to consult on the principles of the proposed National Education Service Charter. These discussions fed into the Early Years, Education and Skills consultation document.

Throughout the year the eight policy commissions met and held evidence-taking sessions, to hear from invited experts in the field and examine submissions coming in from members, CLPs and people attending consultation events across the country. Once the consultation had closed on 24 June the commissions met to consider submissions and update the consultation documents to reflect what had been heard from the consultation. These documents can be found in the NPF Annual Report to Conference 2018. We would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who got involved in this year's consultation.

To read more about this year's work please see the NPF Annual Report to Conference 2018.

International work/Westminster Foundation For Democracy

The Labour Party has continued to strengthen its relationships with sister parties to support our broader objectives and to maximise the effectiveness and impact of opposition.

Labour's frontbench team has benefited from dialogue with key sister party counterparts on issues as wide-ranging as Brexit, foreign affairs, health, employment and environmental policy. Frontbench visits were facilitated to the US, Germany, Italy, France, Sweden, Portugal, Norway, South Africa, Ireland, Israel and the OPT and the Netherlands.

Discussions with sister parties on party organisation, election strategy and campaigns continue to inform parties and election campaigns around the world. Discussions over the last year, following the 2017 General Election, have taken place with senior party staff and politicians from France, Australia, Germany, Denmark, Israel and the OPT, Sweden, Canada, New Zealand, the Netherlands, Portugal and the US among others.

The Labour Party hosted a day long Party of European Socialists (PES) Campaign Managers' network meeting in London on our digital election campaign. Over 30 delegates participated from across Europe and sessions were held on member mobilisation, social media, data and integration with offline campaigning.

Both through our international and Westminster Foundation for Democracy work, we founded and hosted the Progressive Alliance training academy in London, providing a global tool for best practise and dialogue, linking together social democrats around the world.

Furthermore through the Labour Party's Westminster Foundation for Democracy work, we have continued to support our sister parties in developing democracies through a programme of best practise based on the needs of our partners. The year has seen a series of key challenging elections with some partners forming governments and others struggling to organise under repressive regimes. Despite this, our focus on campaigning, policy-making, social media and regional dialogue continued. For instance during the Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting, we organised an event on equalities with a specific focus on LGBT. This drew in best practise from sister parties, with the Netherlands and Sweden presenting case studies for participants from Africa and the Western Balkans. Programmes also focussed on women and youth to encourage them to seek public office, with our sister party in Montenegro making history by standing their country's first ever female Presidential candidate.

Europe

European Parliamentary Labour Party Report

It was a privilege to take over from Glenis Willmott as leader of Labour's MEPs last October. Glenis was an outstanding European Parliamentary Labour Party (EPLP) leader for eight years and chaired the NEC from 2016-2017. While Glenis is missed in the European Parliament, we wish her well in her retirement.

Pending any Brexit deal, we continue to debate, amend and vote on European legislation that will still affect British citizens for years to come, such as cracking down on worker exploitation through the revision of the posted workers directive, setting high standards of data-protection, ensuring robust trade defences and backing measures to prevent tax avoidance by multinationals.

But Brexit overshadows everything. There is a growing risk of a costly, job-destroying, rights-reducing, Tory Brexit deal that bears no resemblance to what was promised by the Leave campaign or by Brexit ministers. Labour MEPs will have a vote on the final deal and are pleased that Jeremy Corbyn and the frontbench have committed Labour to opposing any deal that does not meet Labour's six tests, including avoiding a hard border with Ireland and securing the exact same benefits as now from the single market. If the deal is rejected, it should be up to Parliament to decide what happens next, and whether to renegotiate or reconsider Brexit.

The coming months will be a challenging period on a personal level for our MEPs, who are deeply proud of what the EPLP has achieved in over 40 years of service, but have serious worries about what Brexit could mean for our progressive achievements. If Brexit is confirmed next year, we know the Labour Party will stay true to its values of internationalism by maintaining a close future relationship with our sister parties across Europe.

Human Resources Report

Over the last year we have introduced several new initiatives into the organisation centred around employee development and diversity and inclusion.

Following a successful first year of the Labour Party female leadership and development programme, which saw 46% of attendees go on to undertake more senior roles, the second cohort started in February 2018. We have run a number of training courses throughout the year such as communication skills, gravitas, dealing with difficult phone calls and Excel. Later this year we will be rolling out diversity awareness, equal opportunities and unconscious bias training on the e-learning platform.

2018 has seen a focus on employee mental health with the introduction of mental health champions across the organisation as well as mental health awareness and mental health support for managers.

This year has seen the introduction of a Labour Party apprentice scheme. We have employed four apprentices in HR & safeguarding, digital, commercial and finance areas. We have also established BAME, LGBT and Women's Networks.

The Labour Party has successfully maintained its status as a Stonewall Diversity Champion and Disability Confident employer, which underlines our commitment to equal opportunities, both within our workplace and in wider society. The Party has also committed to a minimum wage of £10 per hour from 1 June 2018.

Stability In Our Finances

Stability In Our Finances Report

2017 was a financial success story. In addition to funding an exciting and engaging campaign in the snap General Election, the year also ended on a very positive note. The growth in membership both during and after the campaign period meant that we were able to replenish 50% of the £3.5M cash reserves that had been allocated to the campaign. This is the start of a new “General Election Trust Fund” to again allow us to immediately give the green light to priority activities, springing into action on day one.

In addition, a further £1M was allocated to key campaign activities in 2018 and the general contingency reserve was also boosted. The power of being a mass membership party is evidenced not only by our ability to generate millions in small gifts during a campaign, but also to remain on a campaign footing and invest between elections.

As income has grown, so too has our cost base. This growth is not only in the campaign budget, it is in the core budget too. In allocating resources to either budget it is critical that we can measure the impact, both to test value and make an informed decision on timing – invest now or ring-fence funds in the campaign reserve.

Understanding the effectiveness of expenditure before allocating budget is just one aspect of financial discipline. We must continue to manage budgets to ensure that all expenditure is funded – debt is simply not an option – and risks and vulnerabilities are understood. If they cannot be mitigated, we must, as a minimum, be able to respond as required.

Threats do exist. Members have always been an integral part of our Party, but with membership income now underpinning so much of our budgets and plans, it is more vital than ever that we effectively communicate and engage with our key asset. Retention and growth strategies are critical. Further, the provisions of the Trade Union Act, designed to hit contributions to political funds and curtail the ability of affiliates to support the Party financially, are now effective.

Continued robust financial management including our readiness to scale, both up and down as required, aids success in campaigns and means that we maintain stability in our finances.

Stability In Our Finances

Commercial Development and Fundraising

The Commercial Development team plan, market and deliver fringe events, exhibition and advertising at Annual Conference (AC). Of the 500+ fringe events at AC2017 over 10% were new clients. This demonstrates an increase in the level of engagement with both business and the third sector. Several organisations ran bespoke programmes with multiple events and clients included Reform, Policy Exchange, IPPR, Fabians, EPI, Dods and Unite the Union.

There were over 5,000 commercial and third sector organisations represented at AC2017 so in order to expose organisations to our politicians and maximise networking opportunities we launched a commercial networking event. Due to high attendance and the positive feedback we have received there will be a commercial networking event at AC2018.

Brighton's 2017 conference hosted some 154 stands in the exhibition providing a vibrant place for our delegates and visitors to network with a wide range of exhibitors. We were pleased to welcome back old friends such as the Falklands Islands, Royal Mail, Her Majesties Government of Gibraltar, Cancer Research UK and Prostate Cancer.

Our exhibition third sector zone welcomed 32 smaller organisations to conference including Hope not Hate, The Vegan Society and White Ribbon Campaign.

Stand tours help exhibitors to engage with our politicians and also to use the images via social media almost immediately which helps to promote their message as well as our conference. Responding to exhibitor feedback, we ran a pilot to trial lead retrieval, which allowed exhibitors and fringe event holders to send information to delegates who attended their event or visited their stand.

Our services for visitors included free Wi-Fi and an interactive conference app. We also ran a conference bookshop in partnership with City Books from Hove which hosted book signings and elsewhere the guide dogs provided daily displays via an obstacle course.

Post conference we carried out in-depth evaluations with exhibitors, event holders and commercial visitors to allow us to develop our programme for 2018. The 2018 programme will include more networking opportunities, new branding options and more Labour Party organised events for commercial clients to compliment the fringe.

The fundraising team had a successful year in 2017 with The Thousand Club General Election Appeal raising more than double its target. The funds were used to pay for millions of online adverts and reached over 2.5m people. As a result of our digital campaign, it is estimated that we were able to reach out to over 850,000 people, encouraging them to register to vote.

Outside of campaign fundraising, the team focussed on re-evaluation of the Thousand Club. The aim is to attract new members, whilst refreshing the offering for longstanding supporters. This was undertaken in consultation with current members via a questionnaire, followed by interviews completed by an external consultant. This research helped inform a visual rebrand, a piece of work we are looking to build on in 2018.

Emily Thornberry recently accepted an invitation to become Thousand Club Chair replacing Chris Bryant. We would like to take this opportunity to thank Chris for his work over the last two years.

Events, Business Engagement and Endorsements, Visits

Events

Following on from last year's General Election campaign, the event team's attention turned to organising Jeremy Corbyn's summer tour setting up rallies in Hastings & Rye, Southport, Chingford & Woodford Green and Mansfield for audiences of up to 5,000 people, ending in Brighton Pavilion on the eve of last year's Labour conference.

From one year to the next we are responsible for the delivery of Annual Conference. In 2017 this took place in the Brighton Conference Centre attended by approximately 13,000 people.

Since the summer of 2017, we have organised the post-autumn statement rally against austerity in West Bromwich with the Leader, Deputy Leader and Shadow Chancellor. As 2018 is the 70th year of the NHS, we held a rally in London's Central Methodist Hall against the winter health crisis, addressed by Jonathan Ashworth, Jeremy Corbyn and health workers.

The Shadow Chancellor's New Economics tour continued in the autumn with one-day conferences in Lincoln, Southampton, Preston, London as well as the now annual Shadow Chancellor's State of the Economy conference for 800 delegates, which was held in May. We also organised events launching the interim and full Graham Turner report on the UK's financial system.

The events team has also been responsible for organising a number of set piece speeches from members of the Shadow Cabinet, as well as the 2017 autumn statement interventions from John McDonnell and Dawn Butler. There have been a number of Brexit interventions including speeches from Keir Starmer in Birmingham and Jeremy Corbyn in Coventry.

In February 2018, we organised the two-day National Policy Forum for 250 delegates in Leeds and organised a number of national Democracy Review events around the country. We have been involved in the organisation of Young Labour conference in Warwick and Young Labour Political Bootcamp.

The local election campaign launch was organised by the events team in Trafford and was followed by a number of speeches, campaign kick-offs and manifesto launches including a housing consultation at Local Government House. We have also been involved in the site build of Labour Live 2018.

Business relations and endorsements

The business engagement and endorsements team has continued to run a series of events to engage the business community. These have included events with the Shadow Chancellor, Shadow Business Secretary and Shadow Secretary of State for Exiting the European Union as well the wider Shadow Treasury, BEIS and Brexit teams. The events have covered a range of business themes including the future of the finance sector, the skills agenda, diversity in the workplace and women in business.

To continue to engage businesses in the regions and nations, we have organised a number of successful business roundtables across the country on the theme of industrial strategy and Brexit with the respective Shadow Secretaries of State, plus visits by Shadow Ministers to businesses around the UK. The team also organised another successful programme of business engagement events at Annual Conference 2017 in Brighton, including the business forum, business and international reception, economic briefing and high-level Brexit lunch. We were instrumental in providing a broad range of endorsers for digital campaigns, broadcasts, leaflets, rallies and campaign events during the 2018 Local Election campaign.

Frontbench

Since Annual Conference 2017, the visits unit has organised over 500 visits for the frontbench, whether policy based, political or campaigning. We supported the May 2018 local and mayoral elections, two by-elections in Alyn and Deeside and Lewisham East, and many visits to early selection seats.

Working closely with our regional offices, these visits have played an important role in mobilising members and supporters, engaging with stakeholders and communicating Labour's message to the public via digital, local, regional and sometimes national media opportunities.

In addition to visits relating to the Shadow Ministers' policy briefs such as visits to hospitals, businesses, ports or schools, we have coordinated Shadow Cabinet attendance at campaign events, such as 'Action Saturdays', NHS 70th celebrations, street stalls, rail fare campaigning days, rallies, campaign launches and regional mobilisation days such as 'Canvass4London'.

Donations, including sponsorship over £7,500

In the 2017 financial year, we reported 226 donations over £7,500 with a total value of almost £18.5 million. This represented an increase of more than £5 million in comparison to 2016. The total amount included 151 donations with a value of £16.5 million from affiliated trade unions, 35 donations with a value of £1.1 million from individual donors and 15 donations with a value of £350,000 from registered companies.

We secured four major sponsorship packages over £7,500 in 2017: the Bloomberg £50,000 conference sponsorship package which included three major business engagement events at Conference; £33,000 from Usdaw for their sponsorship of the conference lanyards, passes and stewards' t-shirts; £17,000 from Fujitsu for their sponsorship of the Labour Party business lounge at conference and £8,000 from ACCA for commercial support of the Association of Labour Councillors' reception.

Treasurers' Report

We are delighted to present the financial statements for the year 1 January to 31 December 2017, a year of continued financial and membership growth and a general election. This report highlights the benefits of being a mass membership party coupled with stringently following our financial management strategy.

Repayment of debt and continual growth in membership since 2015 meant that for the first time in generations the Party was able to build reserves – termed the "General Election Trust Fund". The aim was to build a fund of £10M by the next general election – a target we obviously did not reach, as, despite months of denials, a snap general election was called. However, for the first time, the Party was able to immediately allocate £millions of cash reserves, set aside for a future general election, to priority campaign activities and seats. This would have been impossible only a few short years ago, but we did it, and we are resolute in our commitment to be ready to do it again.

Of course, the 2017 general election campaign was not funded by reserves alone. The success of our online fundraising strategy far exceeded our achievements during the general election in 2015, as we continued to learn how to reach out to members and supporters. In one single day, this campaign generated donations of £0.5M – the most successful day of online fundraising in UK political history. An amazing show of solidarity was also received from our affiliated trade unions – millions of pounds were donated despite the limited time available to replenish political funds, with the election coming so soon after 2015. While we did not win the General Election the outcome was much closer than many predicted and we were able to remove the Tories' outright majority.

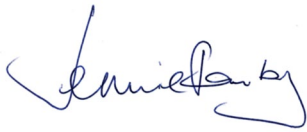

Not only did supporters donate during the campaign, they joined the Party in their thousands. Greater support through membership generates greater income, in turn allowing greater engagement. It is vital that all members, both long-standing members and those who have joined more recently, are fully engaged as an integral part of our Party. The success of our membership retention and growth strategies, along with financial discipline, is critical to the continuing success of our long-term finance strategy. Despite the important changes Labour achieved, our finance strategy now also has to include the negative impact, over time, of the Trade Union Act provisions covering political funds, which have now come into force.

Our 2017 report remains, however, overwhelmingly positive. Despite allocation of funds to the General Election campaign, the growth in both membership and commercial income streams ensured that we ended the year in surplus. Net assets at the end of the year were £13M, an increase of £2M over the previous year. This includes cash reserves of £3M – funds which can now be held for future campaigns including the next general election and the start of a new general election trust fund.

The Labour Party achieves so much through the hard work of activists, staff and elected representatives and the commitment and generosity of members, supporters and affiliates, both trade unions and socialist societies. We would like to thank each and every one for their wonderful efforts, all that they have done and continue to do. We also extend our thanks and best wishes to Iain McNicol who, throughout his 7 years as General Secretary, ensured that the established financial stability was not risked and the NEC's Finance Strategy continued to be adhered to.

Finally, as we have said many times before, we will ensure that the Finance Strategy of the party is fully adhered to, never reverting to the days of no financial responsibility, so that our party has the funds to fight and win elections and to deliver for the many not the few.

Review of Political Activities

A detailed review of the Party's political activities during the period covered by the financial statements will be included in the National Executive Committee (NEC)'s Annual Report that will be submitted to the 2018 Annual Conference for its agreement. The NEC's Annual Report will be available from September 2018.

Committees

The NEC is the governing body of the Labour Party that oversees the overall direction of the Party and the policy-making process. It carries out this role by setting strategic objectives on an annual basis and meeting regularly to review the work of the Party in these areas.

All members of the NEC are members of the National Policy Forum. This body oversees the development of Party policy. It meets throughout the year in full session and through policy commissions presents a report to Annual Conference.

The NEC also has a number of specialist committees and is responsible for upholding the rules of the Party and propriety of Labour selection processes. Details of the principal specialist committees of the NEC are as follows:

Committee	Responsibilities
Business Board	Oversight of the business functions of the organisation including the management of finances.
Joint Policy Committee (JPC)	The JPC is responsible for strategic oversight of the Party's policy development. It oversees the rolling programme, and acts as a steering group for the National Policy Forum (NPF). Jointly convened by the Leader and NEC Co-convenor, it is a joint committee made up of members of the NEC, Government or Shadow Cabinet and NPF.
Equalities Committee	The Committee advises the NEC on steps to increase the Party's membership and representation on elected bodies so as better to reflect the community in terms of gender, ethnicity, age, sexual orientation and disability and to assist and promote the Party's work in combating discrimination in all forms.
Organisation Committee	Responsible for Party rules and constitution; ensures the Party is operating effectively throughout the country to the highest standards; and has overall responsibility for membership, investigations, selections, local government, conferences, electoral law, boundaries strategy and internal elections.
Disputes Panel	Hears membership appeals and re-admission applications; considers Party disputes and conciliation; undertakes minor investigations and local government appeals where referred to the NEC; and conducts hearings and interviews around the country where necessary.
Audit and Risk Management	Responsibility for the Party's risk register and policies to mitigate risks.

Statement of Registered Treasurer's Responsibilities

The Registered Treasurer of the Party is required by the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 to prepare financial statements for each financial year which give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the Party and of its surplus or deficit for that period. In preparing those financial statements, the Registered Treasurer is required to:

- Select suitable accounting policies and then apply them consistently;
- Make judgements and estimates that are reasonable and prudent;
- State whether applicable accounting standards have been followed, subject to any material departures disclosed and explained in the financial statements; and
- Prepare the financial statements on the going concern basis unless it is inappropriate to presume that the Party will continue in business.

The Registered Treasurer is responsible for keeping proper accounting records which disclose with reasonable accuracy at any time the financial position of the Party at that time and to ensure that the financial statements comply with the Act. The Registered Treasurer also has delegated responsibility from the National Executive Committee (NEC) for ensuring that appropriate controls are established for safeguarding the assets of the Party and hence for taking reasonable steps for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities.

Independent Auditor's Report to the members of the Labour Party

Opinion

We have audited the financial statements of the Labour Party for the year ended 31 December 2017 which comprise the consolidated income and expenditure account, the statements of comprehensive income and changes in equity, the consolidated balance sheet, the consolidated cash flow statement and notes to the financial statements, including a summary of significant accounting policies. The financial reporting framework that has been applied in their preparation is applicable law and United Kingdom Accounting Standards, including Financial Reporting Standard 102 The Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland (United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice).

In our opinion, the financial statements:

- give a true and fair view of the state of the Labour Party's affairs as at 31 December 2017 and of the surplus for the year then ended;
- have been properly prepared in accordance with United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice;
- have been prepared in accordance with the requirements of the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000.

Basis for opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with International Standards on Auditing (UK) (ISAs (UK)) and applicable law. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditor's responsibilities for the audit of the financial statements section of our report. We are independent of the Labour Party in accordance with the ethical requirements that are relevant to our audit of the financial statements in the UK, including the FRC's Ethical Standard, and we have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Conclusions relating to going concern

We have nothing to report in respect of the following matters in relation to which the ISAs (UK) require us to report to you where:

- the Registered Treasurer's use of the going concern basis of accounting in the preparation of the financial statements is not appropriate; or
- the Registered Treasurer has not disclosed in the financial statements any identified material uncertainties that may cast significant doubt about the Labour Party's ability to continue to adopt the going concern basis of accounting for a period of at least twelve months from the date when the financial statements are authorised for issue.

Other information

The Registered Treasurer is responsible for the other information. The other information comprises the information included in the Treasurer's Report, other than the financial statements and our auditor's report thereon. Our opinion on the financial statements does not cover the other information and, except to the extent otherwise explicitly stated in our report, we do not express any form of assurance conclusion thereon.

In connection with our audit of the financial statements, our responsibility is to read the other information and, in doing so, consider whether the other information is materially inconsistent with the financial statements or our knowledge obtained in the audit or otherwise appears to be materially misstated. If we identify such material inconsistencies or apparent material misstatements, we are required to determine whether there is a material misstatement in the financial statements or a material misstatement of the other information. If, based on the work we have performed, we conclude that there is a material misstatement of this other information, we are required to report that fact. We have nothing to report in this regard.

Responsibilities of Registered Treasurer

As explained more fully in the statement of Registered Treasurer's responsibilities set out on page 59, the Registered Treasurer is responsible for the preparation of the financial statements and for being satisfied that they give a true and fair view, and for such internal control as the directors determine is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, the Registered Treasurer is responsible for assessing the Labour Party's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless the Registered Treasurer either intends to liquidate the Labour Party or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

Auditor's responsibilities for the audit of the financial statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with ISAs (UK) will always detect a material misstatement when it exists.

Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these financial statements.

A further description of our responsibilities for the audit of the financial statements is located on the Financial Reporting Council's website at:

www.frc.org.uk/auditorsresponsibilities. This description forms part of our auditor's report.

Use of our report

This report is made solely to the Labour Party's members, as a body, in accordance with Section 43 of the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000. Our audit work has been undertaken so that we might state to the Labour Party's members those matters we are required to state to them in an auditor's report and for no other purpose. To the fullest extent permitted by law, we do not accept or assume responsibility to anyone other than the Labour Party and the Labour Party's members as a body, for our audit work, for this report, or for the opinions we have formed.

Notes to Financial Statements

General information

The Labour Party is a political party registered with the Electoral Commission. The address of its registered office is disclosed on page 54.

The financial statements are presented in sterling, which is also the functional currency of the Party.

1. Accounting policies

The financial statements have been prepared on the basis of historical cost as modified by the revaluation of land and buildings, and are in accordance with applicable accounting standards in the United Kingdom. The financial statements reflect the principles contained in the Statement of Accounts Guidance Notes issued by the Electoral Commission and in existence as at 5 May 2008.

The Party's accounting policies are set out below. These have been applied consistently.

The following principal accounting policies have been applied:

a. Income recognition

Income, which excludes value added tax, is recognised when all of the following conditions have been met:

- The Party is entitled to the asset;
- There is reasonable certainty that the asset will be received; and
- The value of the asset can be measured with reasonable certainty.

Applying these criteria to specific types of income results in the following treatment:

- Donations, including legacies, are recognised in the income and expenditure account on receipt. Donations of notional income are recognised on receipt at the relevant market value of the donation received with an expense of the same amount being recognised at the same time.
- Membership fees are recognised in the income and expenditure account when received
- Government grants are recognised in the year in which the related expenditure is incurred (see note 5).

All other income including affiliation fees is recognised on an accruals basis.

b. Tangible fixed assets

Property assets comprise both freehold and leasehold land and buildings held as functional property or long-term investments by Labour Party Properties Limited.

Functional property is carried at fair value. This is based on the most recent professional valuation (which is carried out at least every five years) or, if recently acquired, at cost, subject to an annual impairment review (carried out by the directors of Labour Party Properties Limited with the assistance of an expert third Party who is retained throughout the year). In addition, if the annual impairment reviews identify instances where the carrying value is materially different from the fair value then a full valuation will be conducted. Given the maintenance of the properties and the length of their estimated useful lives, or lease term no depreciation is charged as it is considered to be immaterial. The National Executive Committee (NEC) considers that this accounting policy results in the financial statements giving a true and fair view.

Investment properties are measured at fair value annually by the directors of Labour Party Properties Limited with the assistance of an expert third party with any change recognised in the consolidated income and expenditure account.

Long leasehold improvement assets are depreciated on a straight line basis over the period of the lease.

Expenditure on other tangible assets is only considered for capitalisation if it amounts to £10,000 or more and its useful economic life can be reasonably estimated at the year end.

c. Value added tax

The Party is registered for value added tax (VAT) purposes, but it is only liable on chargeable transactions. All items of income and expenditure are shown in the financial statements net of VAT. A partial exemption formula has been agreed with HM Revenue and Customs and VAT has been recovered. The value of VAT that is irrecoverable is included in "Other expenditure" (see note 12).

Notes to Financial Statements

d. Pension costs

The Labour Party is responsible for the solvency of the Labour Party Superannuation Society, which is a defined benefit pension scheme (see note 22). Pension scheme assets are measured using market values. The present value of the defined benefit obligation was measured using the Projected Unit Credit Method.

Any pension scheme surplus (to the extent it is considered recoverable) or deficit is recognised in full and presented on the face of the balance sheet. The movement in the scheme surplus/deficit is split between operating charges, financing items and, in the statement of changes in equity, actuarial gains and losses.

e. Accounting estimates

The preparation of financial statements requires the use of estimates and assumptions about future conditions. This is especially important in the setting of bad and doubtful debt provisions. The NEC believes that it has examined all reasonably available information in assessing the recoverability of debtors and set the provision prudently.

f. Operating leases

Rentals payable and receivable under operating leases are charged or credited to the income and expenditure account on a straight-line basis over the terms of the leases.

g. Investments

Investments in non-quoted shares are normally valued at cost less provision for impairment.

Where investments are donated to the party the potential fair value is considered and if a reliable fair value can be determined the investment is recognised at its deemed cost, i.e. the fair value at the date of donation. If a sufficiently reliable fair value is not available for donated assets no cost is recognised.

Quoted investments are measured at market value and are revalued each year, with gains/losses being recognised in the statement of comprehensive income and changes in equity.

h. Key judgements and estimates

In the application of the Party's accounting policies, which are described in note 1, the NEC are required to make judgements, estimates, assumptions about the carrying values of assets and liabilities that are not readily apparent from other sources. The estimates and underlying assumptions are based on historical experience and other factors that are considered to be relevant. Actual results may differ from these estimates.

The estimates and underlying assumptions are reviewed on an on-going basis. Revisions to accounting estimates are recognised in the period in which the estimate is revised if the revision affects only that period or in the period of the revision and future periods if the revision affects the current and future periods.

The key sources of estimation uncertainty that have a significant effect on the amounts recognised in the financial statements are described in the accounting policies and are summarised below:

- Pension liabilities – The Party recognises its asset or liability in respect of its defined benefit pension scheme which involves a number of estimations as disclosed in Note 22.
- Valuation of investment properties – The Party's investment properties are stated at their estimated fair value based on professional valuations as disclosed in Note 15.
- Dilapidation provision – The Party has provided for its possible liability in relation to its leasehold property which has been estimated as disclosed in Note 19.

i. Financial instruments

The Labour Party has financial assets and financial liabilities of a kind that qualify as basic financial instruments. Basic financial instruments are initially recognised at transaction value and subsequently measured at amortised cost using the effective interest method. Financial assets held at amortised cost comprise cash at bank and in hand, together with trade and other debtors. Financial liabilities held at amortised cost comprise bank loans and overdrafts, trade and other creditors.

Investment properties are held at fair value at the Balance Sheet date, with gains and losses being recognised within income and expenditure. Investments in subsidiary undertakings are held at cost less impairment.

At the balance sheet date the Party held financial assets at amortised cost of £19,755,000 (2016: £14,436,000) and Financial liabilities at amortised cost of £19,191,000 (2016: £18,138,000). The Party held financial assets at fair value through the income and expenditure accounts of £195,000 (2016: £204,000).

2. Basis of preparation

The Labour Party is constituted under section 26 of the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 as a central organisation with accounting units. The consolidated financial statements incorporate the results of the Labour Party central organisation, its subsidiary undertaking Labour Party Properties Limited, the Scottish Labour Party and the Wales Labour Party. The Scottish Labour Party is a separate accounting unit registered with the Electoral Commission and as such is required to file its own financial statements with the Electoral Commission, but as its management is integrated with that of the Labour Party's central organisation it is considered appropriate to reflect its results in the consolidated financial statements. The consolidated financial statements do not include the results of other accounting units registered with the Electoral Commission except where Head Office undertakes accounting on behalf of certain accounting units or bears costs relating to accounting units, which are not then subsequently recharged to the accounting unit.

The income and expenditure account includes the consolidated results of the regional offices of the Labour Party, the Scottish Labour Party and the Wales Labour Party which contributed a surplus of £40,000 (2016: deficit of £30,000) to the result for the year. The consolidated results of the regional offices are produced from accounts that are prepared mainly on a cash accounting basis rather than an accruals basis. It is not considered that restatement of the results on to an accruals basis for the current and prior years would have a material impact on the result for the year.

The financial projections of the Party indicate that the funding to be generated across all income streams will provide sufficient means for the Party to achieve its organisational and political objectives as well as service its debt for the foreseeable future. Accordingly the financial statements have been prepared on a going concern basis.

Campaign expenditure in the consolidated statement of income and expenditure (£11,012,000 in 2017, £5,439,000 in 2016) represents the Party's expenditure in national elections, as defined by the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000 and reported to the Electoral Commission.

Notes to Financial Statements

3. Basis of taxation

The Party is treated as an unincorporated association for tax purposes and is therefore liable to corporation tax on its investment income. It also bears tax on any investment transactions that give rise to capital gains

The taxation of each of the subsidiary companies under the control of the NEC is dealt with separately and a corporation tax liability arises on any adjusted income and expenditures as returned to HM Revenue and Customs.

A deferred tax asset of £21,000 (2016: £38,000) has not been recognised. This asset arises primarily from the availability of losses incurred. The asset relating to the losses will be recoverable when sufficient profits have been generated to utilise those losses. At 31 December 2017 Labour Party Properties Ltd had approximately £242,000 of losses carried forward (2016: £328,000).

22. Pension fund

The Labour Party Superannuation Society is a funded Society of the defined benefit type providing retirement benefits based on final salary. The assets of the scheme, known as the Labour Party Superannuation Society, are held separately from those of the Party.

The contributions of the Party and the employees are 21.4% and 6% of salaries respectively.

Regular employer contributions to the Society for the year starting 1 January 2018 are estimated to be £2.9M. Additional employer contributions might be required if there are redundancies or benefit augmentations during the year.

The valuation for the FRS 102 disclosures has been based on a full assessment of the liabilities of the Society as at 31 December 2014.

The present value of the defined benefit obligation was measured using the Projected Unit Credit Method.

The principal assumptions used by the independent qualified actuaries to calculate the liabilities under FRS 102 are set out below:

Main Financial Assumptions

	2017	2016
Discount rate for society liabilities	2.60%	2.70%
Rate of general long term increase in salaries	4.15%	4.25%
RPI inflation	3.15%	3.25%
CPI inflation	2.15%	2.25%
Pension increases pre April 1997	0.00%	0.00%
Pension increases April 1997 to April 2005	2.20%	2.30%
Pension increases post April 2005	1.80%	1.90%

The assumption for post retirement mortality is in line with the standard S2 SAPS tables making an allowance for improvements in longevity in line with the CMI_2014 Core Projections and a long term rate of improvement of 1.5% each year for both men and women with average scaling factors of 104% for males and 109% for females.

Under these assumptions, members aged 60 now are expected to live for a further 27.3 years if they are male and a further 29.1 years if they are female. Members currently aged 45 are expected to live for a further 29.0 years from age 60 if they are male and for a further 30.9 years from age 60 if they are female.
